Structured schedule
The college campus allows students ample flexibility in planning their schedules regarding classes, meal times, exercise, and close proximity to most places and friends. In the real world, your schedule is likely to become somewhat fixed and it will be more difficult to choose a different schedule each day, let alone every few months.

More responsibility
You’re soon to be a college graduate! This degree represents your ability to successfully navigate the world and now that you have it, others will trust and expect more from you.

You and your friends are at different stages
Not everyone is going to have a job lined up after graduation. Don’t be discouraged if you’re not sure of your next step. It generally takes 3 to 9 months for the average college graduate to secure employment.

Adapting to a new living arrangement
Whether you’re moving out or moving back home, your lifestyle is going to change, so take time to adapt. Find an outlet for stress, such as exercising or joining a group of interest.
How to prepare:
• Build your professional wardrobe (Buy a suit!)
• Create a budget and calculate living expenses
• File important documents such as reference letters and transcripts
• Stay connected with friends and professional contacts

Making the best impact:
• Never be late
• Get to know your co-workers/colleagues
• Be interactive (don’t eat lunch alone)
• Inform others of your strengths and how you can be of assistance
• Communicate your progress to your supervisor

What to do when you have nothing to do:
• Take action
  The worst thing you can do is nothing. Get involved in something, anything. Try volunteering, part-time work, traveling, creating or maintaining contacts, teaching yourself something you’ve always wanted to learn, and utilizing resources.
• Get organized and create a job search strategy
  – Clean up your online presence and embrace it on professional sites like LinkedIn
  – Update your email address and voicemail greeting
  – Add a professional signature line to your emails including the following:
    First Name Last Name
    Street Address
    City, State, Zip Code
    Email Address
    Phone
